and what have you

by BOB CRAIG

I have not noticed much excitement around town concerning the coming general election to be held Tuesday, that is, except at the High School. The campaign issues are being hotly discussed there.

Tuesday afternoon of this week a debate was held in the High School auditorium between the backers of Kennedy and Nixon. Both sides drew heavy applause and cheers with their charges and countercharges. To an outsider it was hard to tell who had the greatest following, Nixon or Kennedy. The farm problem was the central issue running through the debate, which is probably natural for this area. Poll Taxes went on sale Wednesday morning at one cent apiece to qualify voters in the High School's own presidential election.

It will be interesting to compare the results of the school with voting in this area.

A new twist has been added to the "pick-a-name contest" of the Ferguson Theatre's quest for a new name. Rather than the best name submitted being selected for the new name, the management has already picked the name and the earliest post-marked card bearing the name will win the prize. The theatre is offering a $10 prize plus one month's show pass, a $5 second prize and a $2.50 third prize.

The following article was given to us by Edgar Duncan and probably a truer picture of American way of life than most of us care to realize. The article first appeared in Rotary Ways magazine and picked it up from a mailing list to him.

A TRUE STORY

A young man lived with his parents in a public housing development. He attended the local schools and participated in the "free" lunch program. He entered the Army, then upon discharge, retained his National Life Insurance. He ended in the state university, taking part time at the state school to supplement his GI education check. Upon graduation he married a public health nurse and bought a house with a FHA loan, then secured a RFC loan to go into business.

BABY WAS BORN in the hospital. The young father bought a small ranch with aid of the Veterans' Land program and obtained emergency feed from the government. Later he put part of his money in the Soil Bank and the money soon paid off the house. His father and mother lived very comfortably on their small security and old-age assistance checks. REA lines allied electricity, the government helped him clear his name, the county agent showed him how to terrace it, and the government built him a fish pond.

HE READ BOOKS from the public library, and his banked money was insured by an agency of the government. The child grew up, entered the public school, ate free lunches, and the school bus, played in municipal park, and swam in the public pool, and joined FFA. The man owned an automobile, so he favored the rural highway program. He had a petition seeking federal assistance in developing an industrial project "to help the economy of the area," was in a move to get a new school building, and went to Washington with a group to the government to build a great power dam costing $100,000,000 so the area could get "ap" electricity. He was a leader to get his specific business special tax breaks and exemptions. THEN ONE DAY he wrote Congressman: "I wish to stop these excessive governmental expenditures, and at high taxes. I believe rugged individualism. I believe people should stand on their own feet without expect-handouts, and I demand a return to principles of our Constitution and the policies of the Rights."

PROPOSED NEW BUILDING—The architect's sketch of the new sanctuary and educational building for the First Methodist Church is shown above. Wyatt C. Dedrick of Fort Worth is the architect for the $200,000 building program. The Methodists will launch their building program with a "Kick-off" dinner next Wednesday night.

Over $600 in Prizes Offered in Herald's Subscription Contest

Three very lucky people will split over $600.00 in prizes just before Christmas which will be made possible by the Herald. The prizes will be awarded in the Herald's Gigantic Fall Subscription Campaign.

Not only will the prizes be awarded, but also the churches and church organizations of this area will have the opportunity of earning extra money for what ever cause they might have.

The church or church organization will receive money earned on commissions of cash subscriptions sold by the workers at the rate of 30 per cent on new subscriptions and 20 per cent on renewals.

The prizes as announced in a page advertisement appearing elsewhere in this issue are:

First Prize, a $341.00 Double-Oven General Electric fully automatic Range; Second Prize, a $179.95 portable General Electric 17-inch Television; Third Prize, a $79.95 deluxe General Electric Vacuum Cleaner.

These prizes may be seen at Joe Hudspeth's and the winner of the range may choose a gas range of equal value if they so desire.

The contest will open November 14 and run until December 17.

The prizes will be awarded on the basis of votes earned by the sale of subscriptions determined by the following schedule: one-year subscriptions, 15,000 votes; one-year renewal subscriptions, 10,000 votes; two-year new subscriptions, 30,000 votes; and two-year renewals, 20,000 votes. 150,000 bonus votes will be awarded for every $30.00 turned in by a worker. Other bonus votes will

Elementary P-TA To Meet Today in Primary Cafeteria

Hamlin Elementary P-TA will meet at 4:00 p.m. today at the primary cafeteria with Rev. Lenard Hartley, pastor of the First Baptist Church, as the principal speaker.

Theme for the program will be "Basic Human Needs—What Are They?"

Rev. Cecil Stowe, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, will give the invocation. Mrs. Floyd Smith will present the thought for the month.

Fifth grade pupils will be in charge of the entertainment.

be announced during the campaign.

Bob Craig, publisher of the Herald, said that this type of campaign was chosen because of the difficulty encountered by most churches in finding a method of raising extra money that does not compete with local merchants and still gives a fair return on the time invested.

He also stated that he felt a campaign was needed at this time to increase the coverage of the Herald to enable the paper to give people of this area better news coverage and to increase the effectiveness of the advertisements inserted by local merchants.

Anyone interested in this campaign as a project for their church organization is urged to contact the Herald office and make arrangements for a member of the staff to explain the program.

Council Approves Paving Assessment

The City Council passed a resolution Wednesday morning ordering the assessment against the owners and their property which abuts certain streets within the city that they have been ordered to be improved.

The streets or ones that the majority of the property owners on the streets have requested paving and all of the owners have not agreed to go along on the voluntary plan. Owners on these streets have put up the money for the paving and have requested that the council give them some assurance that they can get their money back.

In the resolution passed Wednesday, the council ordered a public hearing to be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, November 21, at which time all interested property owners, their agents or attorneys will be accorded a full and fair hearing of all matters with reference to the proposed assessment.

The total cost of the paving program is $43,537.50, with the property owners paying $40,500.00 of this amount.

The project will pave 29 blocks of city streets.

The cost to the owners will remain the same as was previously announced, $200 per front foot and curb and gutter, where one does not exist, $135 per foot.

Under the assessment program, where the property owner does not agree to pay for the cost of the paving, a judgment will be taken against the property unless it is a homestead. If the property is a homestead a personal judgment will be taken against the owner.

Property included in the assessment is listed in the notice published by the city on the classified page of this issue.

Voting Boxes Here To Open at 8 a.m.

Polling places will open here Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock for voting in the general election. Both Hamlin boxes will be used in the election. The East box will vote at the City Hall and the West Box will vote in the High School Gymnasium.

A check with L. H. McBride, election judge of the West box, revealed that although voting will start in Taylor County at 7 a.m. all counties under 100,000 population will open their polls at 8 a.m.

While the voters are making their choices for the President and Vice President for the next four years and other national, state and county elected officials, they also will vote on four amendments to the state constitution.

Voters desiring a ride to the polls may call SP 4-1501 and someone will pick them up and return them to their homes after voting. This service is being furnished by the Hamlin Jaycees.

Campaigning has been quiet in Jones county while the Democratic party has been very active in Fisher and Haskell counties.

Both the Jaycees and the school children have been busy the past few weeks putting up placards around town urging the people to vote.

'QUEEN' AND 'HERO' HONORED AT MCCAULEY HOMECOMING

The third Annual McCauley Homecoming, staged over the weekend, featured the presentation of the high school queen and the football hero at the football stadium Friday evening. The football game between the McCauley and Blackwell teams was called off because the officials did not arrive.

Pipers Journey To Spur Friday

The Pipers will journey to the famed "Pit" to engage the Spur Bulldogs in a contest that will determine the second ranked team in district 6-AA.

The Anson Tigers carried off district honors and the right to represent the district in the play-offs when Seymour defeated Haskell Friday night. Hamlin can share the top honors with Anson, but cannot represent the district in the play-offs by beating Spur and if Haskell can upset Anson.

After a week's rest, most of Coach D. C. Andrews' players will be in pretty fair shape when they go up against the Bulldogs.

The Bulldogs rely heavily on their running game and throw the running pass. Their best running back is Fred Walker at left half, he is a top-notch broken-field runner. Top pass

She was also presented with an arm bouquet of lovely white mums. She was escorted by Norris Blanton, and the attendants were Phyllis Richardson and Betty Lu Ferguson.
The setting for the coronation ceremony was a spring garden scene with trellis and archway entwined with English ivy as the center interest. A miniature fence bordering the front of the stage and decorated with roses completed the setting.

Ask Amy

BY AMY ADAMS

A CHILD'S PLACE IS WITH HIS MOTHER

Dear Amy:

I don't know just how to ask you about this, but I'm going to the best I know how. I'm married and have a sweet girl 5 years old but before I was married, I made a mistake. I had a baby. He is now 12 and my mother has had him all his life. My husband knew all about it and now my mother wants me to take him. I want to very much but my husband doesn't want him.

I have tried my best to be a good wife and mother. My husband says he loves me and is good to me. We will be married 6 years and we have been happy, but now I am so worried about all this, I just feel sick and don't know what to do! I have no one to ask about it. I love my kids with all my heart and would give anything for both to be with me. I paid for all my son's clothes and school expenses while my mother had him and I visited him 3 or 4 times a year. I would have taken him before, but my husband said he should stay with my mother because the boy liked her.

I love my family and I hope and pray this doesn't break up our home. Would you tell me what to do, please?

Mrs. M.L.

Dear Mrs. M.L.:

You started your marriage off wrong by not taking your son to live with you. A child's place is with his mother and no man can deny her this right. If your husband loves you, he would love your son and allow him to live under his roof.

If you cannot convince him of these facts, go to the nearest Family Counseling Service office. I hope and pray for your sake they can straighten out this heart-breaking situation.

Dear Amy:

A boy dated me two or three times and then he told me he was married. He said he could learn to love me if he wasn't married. I stopped dating him and later on all the boys who grew up with him told me he wasn't married.

He tried to get me to go out with him again. He said it wasn't wrong, but I still refused to date him. I believe he is lying because he says one thing and all the boys say something else. What is best to do about him?

Worried Girl

Dear Worried:

Married or single, with this guy don't mingle!

DOMESTIC SUPPLY OF WHEAT FOR 1960-61 SETS RECORD

College Station—The domestic supply of wheat for the marketing year July 1, 1960 to June 30, 1961 is estimated to be about 2,682 million bushels, another record, says John McHaney, extension agricultural economist. This large supply is the result of a carryover on July 1, 1960 of 1,313 million bushels, and a 1960 crop estimated to be about 1,362 bushels. Added to this will be about 7 million bushels of imports.

Domestic disappearance in the present marketing year of 1960-61 will probably be about 600 million bushels, about the same as in 1959-60, McHaney continues. The expected slight decline in per capita consumption will be offset by the population increases, however. Seed and feed use of wheat will be about the same as last year.

Exports during the present marketing year will probably be higher than in 1959-60. About 525 million bushels will be exported as compared to 508 million exported last year. Government export programs, which will account for about two-thirds of the exports, will continue to play a major role in the movement of wheat abroad, the specialist points out. Less favorable conditions in Europe, however, will also aid U. S. exports.

The 1959-60 price to U. S. farmers averaged $1.76, about 5c above the average support rate after allowing for storage charges. The price in 1960-61 is expected to again average above the effective support, storage deducted. This is mainly because large quantities of wheat continue to be placed under the price support program, explains McHaney. The support rate for the 1960 crop is $1.78 as compared to $1.81 for a year earlier.

SAFETY COUNCIL WARNS— DON'T GIVE YOUR CHILD A BOOBYTRAP THIS CHRISTMAS

"Don't give your child a boobytrap this Christmas!" That's the advice of the National Safety Council, a non-governmental agency organized in 1913 to prevent all kinds of accidents—including those involving children's "harmless" toys.

"Some of the toys given youngsters as Christmas gifts," said Phil Dykstra, the Council's director of home safety, "can be lethal weapons."

"Not all the blame for toys that became hazardous to children after a few hours' use should go to the manufacturers," he said.

"Parents have as much—if not more—responsibility for top safety as the manufacturers."

While Dykstra said he believes toy makers should keep safety foremost in mind—"And most reputable toy manufacturers do"—he recommended the following for parents:

1. Buy toys that do not have small removable parts or such unsafe parts as eye-threatening pieces of metal. "Learn from experience—and from other parents—what types of toys most often cause trouble."

2. Buy toys suited for the child at his particular age. "A chemistry set in the hands of a 5-year-old might be a deadly weapon. But it's not necessarily a bit unsafe for an older child who has been properly trained and supervised."

3. Supervise use of toys your children get for Christmas. "If you see that your child is too young for a particular toy," Dykstra advised, "put the toy on a shelf until it's ready for safe use."

"Manufacturers are doing their best to produce safe toys. With the help of parents, toy accidents can be virtually eliminated."

Should Religion Be an Issue?

For those who do not believe that the Roman Catholic Church takes advantage of every opportunity to advance its political cause, here are just a few things that are happening at the present time, as recounted in a letter to the editor and reprinted in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram Sept. 27:

...In New York City, where the Catholics are in power, there are 228 judges, 11 Protestant and 217 Catholic. There are 34 department heads, three Protestant and 31 Catholic. The Catholics are in control in the state legislature... and have just passed a law permitting state funds to be used for parochial schools.

In Buffalo, N. Y., also under Catholic control, all the candidates for public office, on both Republican and Democratic tickets are Catholics. Just a coincidence, say the Catholics.

In Ohio, now under its second successive Catholic governor, there are over 2,000 garbed Catholic nuns now teaching in the public schools. In the City of Chicago, also under the Catholic domination, there are over 500 nuns teaching in the public schools.

All of these nuns get their jobs on the basis of being American citizens but they all claim income tax exemptions as agents of the Catholic church.

In Newark, N. J., a well directed Catholic bloc gained control of the local public school board. The first thing the new Catholic superintendent did was to ban several books, from the public school library because, as he said, they were critical of the Roman Catholic Church.

'Help Me Mother'

Ed. Note: This is the first in a series of four articles which originally appeared in the Cosmopolitan Magazine, August, 1953, and which are reprinted here with permission of that magazine. Entitled "Help Me, Mother, Help Me", the following was written by Dorothy Virginia Smith.

I have before me a letter that made me happier than I had been for a long, long time. It came from the Montgomery County, Maryland, Tuberculosis Association, and told me that my baby had been discharged as a tuberculosis patient. A discharged TB patient at the tender age of eighteen months.

I have received four such letters in the past months. You see, I have four children, Don, eleven; Sherry, eight; Robby, six; and Christine, now nearly three. All four have won the battle of tuberculosis, and my thankfulness to God prompts me to write this story. I hope it puts parents everywhere on guard.

My story begins in September 1950, a month before Christine was born. My husband, Ted, and I decided to hire a maid to take care of the older children during my confinement and convalescence. After several evenings of searching the classified ads, we hit Beulah. She came over for an interview, and we liked her immediately. She was a very pleasant and neatly dressed woman around thirty-five years old. We asked her all the questions we thought necessary. She loved children, though she never had any of her own. She had been widowed a year ago. She loved to cook and delighted in baking cakes and goodies. She had worked for one family for over eight years. They had gone to Europe, but she would give us the telephone number of a friend of theirs who would recommend her.

Hardly was she out the door when I called the number. The voice at the other end said she remembered Beulah. It had been a long time ago, but as she recalled, Beulah was wonderful with children and her friends had been well pleased.

That did it! I had a maid! My problems were over. Before I went to the hospital in October, I found Beulah was all she claimed to be. Her pies and cakes were out of this world, and the children loved her. She seemed to delight in making them happy and in keeping the house spotless. She sang all day. When the time finally came for me to go to the hospital, Beulah patted me on the back and told me she would take care of everything. Never had I left the children with such complete comfort.

On October 15, 1950, Christine was born. Ted and I were delighted, and we couldn't wait to get her home to her brothers and sister. On the day I came home Beulah had my room glistening. The curtains were starched, and the bassinet had been placed next to the bed. After the children had wondered over this tiny new bundle, I climbed into my sweet-smelling bed, and as I lay there, I thought, I guess I'm the luckiest person in the world.

It was not for long. Soon the children began ailing. First one and then another, without rhyme or reason. Just a temperature for a day or so, and then they would be all right again. I became panicky. They certainly got enough sleep and the proper food. Beulah seemed as worried as we were. She carried trays to them and read them stories while I took care of the baby.

Then, to complicate matters, I came down with the flu for two weeks. I had Ted bring me home several sterile masks so I would not infect the baby while I gave her her bottle. Beulah again took over complete charge of the house, including the baby. I would lie on my pillow, too weak to lift my head, and watch her bathe and dress the baby.

I recovered from the flu and took over the children's care from Beulah. But they continued to be sick. Finally the baby got sick. She just seemed listless one day, and I decided to check her temperature. It was 101, so I called the doctor. The other three children were all right at the time. The doctor treated Christine for an infect ear, but her temperature never got below 100. We called an ear specialist, who diagnosed it as a ruptured eardrum. The ear wouldn't heal neither would the temperature go down. For six solid weeks, the baby ran a temperature every single day. I was almost crazy with worry. The other children would be well for two or three weeks and then sick for several days.

The doctor and drug bills hit us hard, so with misgivings I let Beulah go. She promised to help me Saturdays with the washing and ironing. She had been with us only two and a half months, but the day she left I all but cried and so did the children. Afterward, things would not have been so hard if only the children had stayed well, but they kept getting sick. The worry exhausted me mentally as well as physically. Ted's reaction was the same. Every night when he came home his first question was, "Well, who's sick today?"

One consolation was the baby. At three months, she was as fat as a little pig. She ate well, slept plenty, and cooed when she talked to. But she still ran a low-grade fever every day. One day without warning her temperature shot up to 102, and she lay in her bassinet without moving. Her big brown eyes followed me all around one room—almost as if they were saying, "Help Me, Mother, Help Me." A fear that I cannot explain gripped my heart. The doctor said the baby would have to go to the hospital for a series of tests. There was nothing apparently wrong with her ear, and that should have cleared up long before.

The two older children were home from school sick, lying around the house and watching television. Robby, who was then four years old, was in bed with a temperature of 102. I was very upset about leaving them, but I felt that I had to stay with the baby. Ted and I decided that I would stay with her at the hospital and he would stay home with the children. My sister-in-law, Ann, said she'd relieve Ted as much as possible.

I bundled up the baby, and Hospital in Washington, D. C. As worried as I was, I felt a sense of relief.

At the hospital, the intern asked routine questions. Several technicians took blood tests and a urinalysis. Through all this Christine just lay in her crib. She was too sick even to cry. I had a bed next to her crib, and all through the night, I lay there, wide awake, wondering, worrying and praying. Ted called before I went to bed and said the other children were asleep but they all had a fever. Dejected, I kissed the baby's hot cheek and climbed into bed.

After an eternity of silence, broken only by the occasional crying of a sick child, morning came. A nurse came in with a bottle for the baby. She said they were going to X-ray the baby as soon as she finished feeding. They could just as well whisper, "Thank God it's nothing to drink a drop. Soon a nurse came in and carried her off to the X-ray room. In less than fifteen minutes, they brought her back crying.

Ted came shortly after noon and right behind him the doctor. He gave it to us quickly. "Christine has pneumonia. She has a spot on her lung the size of a silver dollar."

The feeling of relief was overwhelming. "Thank God," I whispered. "Thank God it's nothing worse." I felt that with God's help I would pull Christine through pneumonia. The doctor's voice broke into my thoughts explaining that Christine must stay in the hospital until she was better. When Ted left for his gas station, he kissed me and said, "Now if we just knew what was wrong with the other three..."

In just two days, Christine was well on the road to recovery and her temperature was normal. I was anxious to get home with her, for the other children were no better. Once when I called, Sherry answered and said, "Well, Don's all right, Mommy, but Robby's so hot he burns my hand when I touch him." My heart sank when I heard that. I sat in that phone booth fully five minutes. Should I go home to them? Or should I stay with the baby. If I did, who would help Ted with the others?—Beulah! I got her at her place of work. She explained she couldn't come before Saturday, but would send a very good friend of hers to help us out till then.

So, on Thursday, Jean came to our house to help Ted with the children. She worked only two days. I have never ever seen her, but I'll never forget her. And I'll soon explain why.

On Saturday, only five days after she had been admitted, I brought the baby home. The doctor did not want to release her. I begged and pleaded, and he said that I could take her if I would isolate her in a room. He would have to continue the penicillin shots.

When I got home, I put the baby in my room and closed the door. Then I rushed in to see Don and Sherry, and they both leaped out of the bed and threw their arms around me. I thought they looked fine, and my spirits lifted. Robby was in the other bedroom. He didn't jump out of bed to greet me. He lay there flushed with fever. I sat down beside him, and he put his feverish arms around my neck and said, "I missed you, Mommy. How is Christine?" Oh, dear God, I cried within myself, what is wrong with him? Beulah was standing in the doorway behind me. "Mrs. Smith," she said, "you've got to do something about that boy. There's something terrible wrong with him."

The next day was Sunday, and everyone seemed better except Robby. That night, after and I looked in the living room with a cup of coffee and a cigarette. "Maybe," Ted said, "maybe we're over the worst of it. If we can only get Robby well..."

The telephone rang. It was Jean, the friend of Beulahs who had come to the house to help. Her conversation was brief and shocking. "Mr. Smith," she began, "I couldn't sleep tonight until I told you something I just found out. I been thinking about those nice children ta tell you, Mr. Smith. Beulah has tuberculosis, and she's been hemorrhaging every night and then coming out there to work for you. Her husband died with tuberculosis, and five members of her family died with it, and if I were you, I wouldn't lose no time in getting those children to a hospital right away and having all of them 'tele-scoped.'"

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Vern Sanford TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Strong support for Amendment No. 3, the legislative pay amendment, has come from the Texas State Teachers Association. The proposed constitutional amendment is one of four on the Nov. 8 general election ballot.

The TSTA House of Delegates, meeting in Corpus Christi, unanimously confirmed its support of the amendment, which sets an annual salary for members of the Texas Legislature.

The House of Delegates is composed of teachers from all over the state elected by the 74,000 TSTA members to represent them in setting association policy.

AUSTIN—Many a deer may survive the Texas hunting season because the hunter died first.

According to the State Health Department, there were 181 accidental deaths in Texas, attributed to firearms, in 1958. Last year the number increased to 198.

November is the month when hunting starts in earnest. Normally sane men will start blasting away at one another, on deer leases, or contrive intricate methods of suicide such as climbing over barbed-wire fences with their rifles off safety.

Firearms are not the only threat. Health officials point out that a good many slip and fall over precipices, while gazing off into the distance. Others never get to the lease because they combine a few warming drinks with a fast drive through the pre-dawn chill.

Texas Game and Fish Commission offers these rules for hunting safety:

1. Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun.
  2. Always unload and take down guns carried into home or camp.
  3. Keep guns clean and be sure to have the right size ammunition.
  4. Carry gun so you can control the muzzle, even if you fall.
  5. Be sure of your target before you fire.
  6. Avoid all horseplay.
  7. Keep guns out of reach of children.
  8. Never climb a tree or jump a ditch while carrying a gun.
  9. Never shoot at a flat surface.
  10. Take no alcoholic drinks before or during shooting.
- INSURANCE HIKE ASKED—A 2.6 per cent increase in workmen's compensation insurance rates has been recommended to the State Board of Insurance.

State Insurance Department statisticians said that the rate increase was needed because of the increased cost of individual claims, rather than an increase in the number of claims.

It would up by $3,000,000 a year the $112,000,000 a year paid by Texas employers for on-the-job insurance of workers.

CROP DUSTING DAMAGE UPHELD—A landowner is liable for damages caused to neighboring farms by crop dusting activities, the State Supreme Court ruled.

Defendant in the case was the Pitchfork Land and Cattle Company which was sued by a group of King County landowners. Suit also was brought against the aerial spraying firm hired by the land company.

Pitchfork Company contended that the spraying firm was solely responsible for any damages, but the high court held the land company responsible too.

WATER POLLUTION RULING—In another case involving landowner rights, the Austin Court of Civil Appeals upheld a lower court decision awarding damages from salt water pollution.

A Runnels County woman, owner of a 150-acre farm, claimed her fresh water supply had been polluted by salt water discarded by a drilling firm during oil exploration efforts.

District court found the drilling firm negligent in not having sealed the pits in which it discarded the salt water. It awarded the landowner $9,000 in damages.

PICKLE NAMED TO TEC—J. J. (Jake) Pickle, Austin public relations man, has been appointed by Gov. Price Daniel to succeed Maurice Acers as employer representative on the Texas Employment Commission.

Acers' term expires Nov. 21, but he will remain in office, at the governor's request, until Jan. 9.

Pickle has had a significant background role in many of Texas' major political events in the past decade. He was director of the State Democratic Executive Committee for four years and has worked at one time or another in the political campaigns of Governor Daniel, former Governor Allan Shivers and Sen. Lyndon Johnson.

Acers, an attorney and former FBI agent, was appointed to TEC by Governor Shivers. He served as Shivers' executive assistant in the governor's office.

CLUB RULES DUE NOV.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

Some don't think it's the sportiest thing to do. But when the locker gets low on fish it's time to resort to minnows.

Like a great many other bass fishermen, we much prefer the artificial lure. But there are times, for us at least, when artificials just won't get the job done.

Here's our order of trial. First, we cast out a top-water. Why first? Mainly because we get our greatest thrill out of seeing a lunker bass hit a top-water plug. Our biggest success has been with the Heddon Spook, Color, black. This probably because we have more of them, so we use them more often.

If no luck with top-water experimenting, we try a spinner, such as Garcia's Abu-Reflex or Evans' Shyster, our favorites in the spinner line.

of protests at a hearing on proposed new regulations of private clubs, the State Liquor Control Board plans to re-study the rules and possibly make some changes.

Administrator Coke R. Stevenson Jr. indicated, however, that the rules would probably be basically the same.

Primarily, says Stevenson, the rules are designed to give the Board a means of preventing the operation of open saloons under the guise of private clubs. They would provide for licensing of clubs and forbid liquor dealers to deliver liquor to those that did not meet licensing standards.

Representatives or private clubs called some phases of the rules unreasonable, such as requiring a club to be in existence three years before receiving a liquor selling permit. They declared they would welcome some workable guidelines for operation.

SHORT SNORTS — Austin Court of Civil Appeals ruled that state hospitals have the right to retain social security payments made for the benefits of patients. . . . State Securities Board announced that state permits for 56 firms to offer $21,621,541 in securities were issued in September. This is an increase of more than $8,000,000 over securities approved in August and nearly six times the $3,835,490 in securities approved for September, 1959. . . . Court of Criminal Appeals reversed a decision in which the defendant was fined $300 for sale of liquor in a dry area because in the trial of the case the state had neglected to prove that Morris County—scene of the event—was a dry county. Deficit in the state's general revenue jumped $6,500,000 in two weeks, making the latest in-the-red figure $58,416,716, according to State Treasurer Jesse James. . . . State Highway Department will open sealed bids Nov. 9 and 10 on 143 miles of construction work on state roadways. Low bids are expected to total about $12,300,000.

Then we go to a Dixie Spoon, with or without bucktail.

If we're still without success we do deeper. Best results we have had deep have been with a small, black-colored bucktailed jig. Like the Dixie Spoon, many of them are made in Texas. We've had good luck with Pico's jig. Also those made by Bomber and Whopper Stopper.

All these are what we call "fast fishing" lures. Slowest, of course, is the top of the water. Even it should be worked fast too, if the water is exceptionally calm and without ripples.

But, we've got to admit, here and now, the biggest fish have been caught on artificial worms. Not being a too-patient guy, we resort to plastic worm fishing only when we're tired, or lazy or just plain want to take it easy. In fact, that seems to be the only way anyone can land 'em.

We'll try all these methods for hours upon hours, trip after trip, before we finally succumb to the live minnow.

Then we try small ones, medium size and finally the Texas-size shiners. They get fish. But they don't give us the thrill we expect from fishing. As stated earlier, it's "meat on the table" fishing only—sans the thrill of seeing a strike happen.

We find boating restful and relaxing. So, when the larder is getting low and fishing is slow, we troll for fish. Usually our lure is the Dixie Spoon, or the Dave Hawk Champion.

Latest adventure was trolling with live minnows. Great big, jumbo-size shiners they were. Cost 50c a dozen. But they took fish when nothing else would.

We'd work back and forth over the flats, or alongside the bluffs, and across the points. Motor speed? Not more than five miles per hour, slower if possible. But we caught fish.

We'd slap a big shinner on a number two hook, put a couple of large size split shot on the line, about three feet up from the hook, and cast out. We'd vary the location of the shot from time to time until we found the right depth, then troll away.

My fishing companion, who likes to fish, but not to eat fish, also gets a big bank out of top-water lure plugging. He wants to see the fish strike.

To partially satisfy this craving, while trolling with minnows, he holds his rod high as he reels in the fish and makes it rise out of the water and tail-walk on the surface. Admittedly he loses lots of fish that way, but he gets a thrill out of the sight of the snared fish leaping out of the water to accept the challenge and try to shake the hook—which it does quite often.

Anyway, when the lake is low and fishing is slow—and nothing else seems to work—try trolling with minnows. At least you'll have a delightful boat ride—and you just might latch on to some real lunkers.

LINE RELEASER—Just announced, and certainly of interest to the boatsman is a new concept in line attachment. It's a fixed metal mount for the boat or dock that makes possible quick attachment and instantaneous release of the tie-down lines. Resembles a spring-type clamp except that the clasp is released by a knob that instantly frees the line. Make an attractive addition to the boat and comes complete with a stout Nylon ring to which the line is to be attached. N. A. Taylor Co. is the maker of the TAYLOR-MADE line release. Remote control cables are available, making it possible to drop lines with the flick of a finger.

Whether you are planning a big party or just neighbors in for coffee, napkins are a necessity. Come in and see our fine selections in fall patterns.

33 SOUTH CENTRAL AVENUE

HAMLIN, TEXAS

DIAL SP 4-1131

By MRS. ELMER JOINER

Family night was celebrated Thursday night, October 27, by the Fairview Baptist Church with a Halloween party at the oil mill guest house at Hamlin. Those attending were carried through the ghost house, fortunes were told, ghosts and witches were wandering about.

After a period of spooking, masks were removed and games were played, pictures made and fellowship enjoyed. Refreshments of doughnuts, cookies, apples, coffee and punch were served. About forty people attended, this included several visitors that are always extended a warm welcome.

Mrs. George Wainwright came home from the Stamford Hospital last Thursday. She is recovering nicely after major surgery.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Holmes of Midland, spent last weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Flavel Holmes.

Mrs. Raleigh Bond is feeling much better after a stay in the hospital last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Stephens of Rotan, visited with Mrs. Wainwright Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Winslow Gray returned home Saturday from Amarillo, where she had spent the last week.

Rev. and Mrs. Doyle Combs spent Friday night and Saturday in Sweetwater and Lorraine, visiting their parents and to get their children.

Mrs. Elmer Joiner attended the regular meeting of the Good Neighbor Home Demonstration Club last Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Ester Hastings. Mrs. Billy McDuff joined as a new member.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wright and Melinda Kay, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Flavel Holmes and to be with her brother and wife.

Mrs. H. L. Ford visited Mrs. John Beauchamp Saturday morning.

Other visitors in the Beauchamp home Saturday were his brothers' family from Hermleigh, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Beauchamp and Linda Beth. Sunday visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Beauchamp and Jackie of Haskell.

Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh Bond were Sunday afternoon callers in the Flavel Holmes home.

When this is published Halloween will be over, but on this Monday morning all spooks are planning on roaming to-may break the electrical wiring. Below are suggested methods for washing in either an agitator or tumbler type automatic washer.

Agitator Automatic Washer-- Fill the washer with warm water. Add 1 cup of mild synthetic detergent, and agitate until dissolved. Stop washer. Immerse blanket in washer and close cover. Do not agitate. Let blanket soak for 10 minutes and spin out water for two minutes. Fill for rinse. Agitate for 1 minute. Spin out water for two minutes. Remove blanket. For line drying, hang lengthwise over two parallel clothes lines, preferably in the shade. When an automatic dryer is used, preheat 5 to 10 minutes using large bath towels to absorb and equalize the heat. Add the blanket and allow to tumble about 15 minutes. Complete the drying on the line. Press bindings with stem or dry iron set at low heat.

TUMBLE TYPE AUTOMATIC WASHER-- place blanket in washer. Fill washer with warm water, add ½ cup low sudsing detergent. Then stop washer. Soak blanket for 5 minutes, then tumble 1 minute. Advance dial so water drains out. Then advance dial a second time, let washer fill for deep rinse, run for 1 minute. Finally turn dial to give final drain, for 2 minutes, or until drain hose stops. Remove blanket; dry as directed for agitator type washer.

TWO PRODUCERS COMPLETED IN SOUTHWEST JONES COUNTY

Fletcher Oil and Gas Drilling Corporation, operating from Abilene, completed two producers in Southwest Jones County during the past week. Fletcher No. 2 V. P. Byron, five miles northwest of Noodle and in lot 12, M. W. Dikes survey No. 218, potential for a daily production of 68.75 barrels of 42-gravity oil, flowing through an 18/64-inch choke.

The well is in the Noodle, Northwest (4,000-foot Canyon Sand) pool. The production is from perforated intervals at 4,036-4,044 feet and at 4,054-4,060 feet, after a fracture job. Gas-oil ratio was 750-1.

Fletcher No. 5 Lawlis, four miles northwest of Noodle was completed on the Noodle, Northwest (3,900-foot Canyon sand) area. It is in lot 53, M. W. Dikes survey No. 218.

On the potential test it flowed 89.90 barrels of 41-gravity oil through a 14/64th-inch choke in 24 hours. The petroleum came from perforated zones at 3,926-3,930 feet and 3,958-3,972 feet. Those sections had been fractured.

In the same section of Jones County, and two miles south of Noodle Fletcher is to drill No. 2-E Lilley P. Brown as a 4,000-foot wildcard to try for production in the Canyon sand. It is 1,430 feet from north and 330 feet from east lines of subdivision 16, DeWitt County School Land survey.

In West Haskell County, six miles northwest of Rule, Sun Oil Company is to drill No. 1 E. W. Simpson as a 6,100-foot wildcard to explore the Judd sand and the Bend conglomerate sections.

It is 660 feet from south and 4,500 feet from east lines of the Green B. Cook survey. James G. Brown & Associates of Midland are to drill No. 1 L. C. HOOK BONNETS—Tired of tackle box tangles? C. J. Bates and son have come out with a plastic safety guard for hooks, which they call Hook Bonnets. These little hood covers are just large enough to slide over the hooks, therefore they take up a little room in the tackle box. They make it possible for one to carry a pocket-full of lures without danger of injury

Texaco-Seaboard, Inc. completed No. - 3B C. E. Boyd as a producer from the Bend conglomerate in the multipay area in East Stonewall County, five miles northeast of Aspermont.

The well is due to be dually completed in the Canyon Reef pay section. It is in section 46, block D, H&TC survey.

The Bend potential for a daily production of 124 barrels of 41.1-gravity oil, flowing through a 22/64th-inch choke.
